

2-mile reef Dive Site

2-mile reef:

The most popular dive spot here is 2-mile reef which is 2 miles long!. Two-mile reef lies between Bazaruto Island and Benguerra Island - these islands form part of the Bazaruto Archipelago marine national park. Two-mile reef has a maximum of 20 metres and is pleasant for all levels of divers. The boat ride of 30 minutes to the site is often interrupted by sightings of dolphin pods. Swim throughs, coral outcrops, caves and gullies characterize this barrier reef. Inhabited by subtropical fish such as Parrot, Angel and Butterfly fish; this is a feast for your eyes as you can have close encounters with turtles and manta rays. Dugongs are elusive and rare, most likely to be seen along two-mile reef.
